Extent of travels during retirement

The following maps show the extent of travelling over the retirement years. We were fortunate to see much of the world before the catastrophic events of September 11th, 2001. Since then, tightened security and other restrictions—including mandatory passports for entering the U.S.A. from Canada—have made us think twice about the necessity of foreign travel. There is still much to see and do in Canada, and now with the benefit of the Internet, any overseas travelling can be experienced online.

A chronicle of events can be cross-referenced between the maps, year of travel, list of destinations and the relevant chapters. The vacations have been listed according to different geographical areas and are itemised as follows:

- * Visits to England from Canada – 2006 and up
- * Travels throughout Canada – 2006 and up
- * Travels throughout the United States of America – 2006 and up
